B3. Thinking now about why the Australian government should give aid to poorer countries, which one of the following comes closest to describing the main reason you think Australia should give aid?

Please cross one box only

I don't think the Australian government should give aid	<input type="checkbox"/>	▶ Skip to B5
The Australian government should give aid to bring direct benefits to Australia (more trade, more money for Australian firms etc.)	<input type="checkbox"/>
The Australian government should give aid to bring indirect benefits to Australia (a world safer from terrorism, stopping the spread of diseases etc.)	<input type="checkbox"/>
The Australian government should give aid to be kind. I don't think Australia is obliged to send aid, but I think it is a kind thing to do	<input type="checkbox"/>
The Australian government should give aid because Australia has a moral obligation to help poor people in other countries	<input type="checkbox"/>
The Australian government should give aid to offset problems Australia has played a role in causing	<input type="checkbox"/>
I don't know	<input type="checkbox"/>

B4. Thinking again about government spending on aid in poor countries, please indicate what you think are the first, second, and third most important areas for government spending on overseas aid in poor countries.

1. Agriculture – growing food and other crops
2. Debt relief – reducing debts owed by poor countries
3. Disaster relief – helping in emergencies and urgent humanitarian crises
4. Economic growth – creating jobs and supporting the economy
5. Education – helping people to attend school and receive an education
6. Energy – providing electricity and other energy services
7. Family planning – providing access to contraception and other family services
8. Governance – improving government accountability, transparency and legal rights
9. Health – treating diseases such as HIV and malaria and providing vaccinations
10. Infrastructure – providing roads, access to clean water, sanitation and telecommunications
11. Women's empowerment – supporting gender equality and women's rights
