euandi

- Questionnaire - [Example: Malta]

Introduction

Dear party representative,

Thank you for taking up our invitation to self-place your party for euandi. Before you start to position your party on the 30 political statements we have formulated, let us explain again what the euandi is about and how the self-placement works.

euandi is a Voting Advice Application (VAA) or party profiling website that we intend to use for the elections to the European Parliament in May 2014. It is likely to attract millions of European users and potential voters. euandi has been developed by the European University Institute (EUI) in Florence and it will be available in all EU Member States in all national languages.

euandi contains 30 statements on political issues and users are asked to evaluate these by making use of a scale that runs from 'completely agree' to 'completely disagree'. Once users have evaluated all the statements, the program then goes on to indicate which political party is closest to the political preferences expressed by the user.

In order to position the parties and to subsequently determine how close the user is to the parties, we must locate all parties on the 30 issue statements. Rather than begin with our own coding of your positions, we would like to give you the opportunity of specifying your party's own position on the statements, and we therefore invite you to take part in a self-placement exercise.

Just click through the upcoming 30 statements (grouped in nine different categories) and indicate to what extent your party agrees/disagrees with each statement (by using the five point scale than ranges from 'completely agree' to 'completely disagree'). If you have no opinion on that statement, please use the 'no opinion' answer. Once you have evaluated each statement, please then provide evidence for each answer, for example, by quoting from your election manifesto, or from your party leader's speeches, or by making use of any other literature or statement (either in English or Maltese). We would ask that you make every effort to do this as such documentation is very important as it in effect provides concrete evidence of your position. You will see that, in the pages that follow, there is a box after each statement into which you can type or paste your documentation (e.g. short extracts from your manifesto, links to interviews with your party leader etc). This documentation will be visible to users of the system. As you make your way through our statements, please do bear in mind that you can always exit the questionnaire and return to it later by using the link you have received.

If you are unable to document your position we will have to locate your party for you, by making use of what your party has said or has written (e.g. your manifestos, platforms and other policy statements). Of course, in this event, our positioning might differ slightly from yours, and so if this is the case, we will contact you to discuss any conflicting positioning.

We would ask you to complete this self-placement by 10 March 2014. After that date we will have to locate your party for you, which is something we would rather not do, given that you are clearly best placed to position your own party on the statements and on crucial election issues. In any case, we reserve our right to make the final decision about both individual party positions and the inclusion or exclusion of a party in our application.

We appreciate that completing this questionnaire and providing the appropriate documentation will take a little time. But we hope that you will help us produce the most valuable tool for citizens in view of the upcoming EP elections – and we are convinced that the information you will provide us will be, indeed, most valuable. Moreover, we believe that completing the self-placement will be very worthwhile because it will mean that citizens who use euandi will be aware of your positions on different issues, and will therefore be better placed to consider giving your party their support.

For more information on euandi, please visit <http://www.eui.eu/Projects/EUDO/EUandi/Index.aspx> or contact us directly. Should you have any questions on the tool or the self-placement, please do not hesitate to contact us.

Thank you very much for your cooperation.

Malta's country-team leaders
