Introduction

Good morning/afternoon/evening. I am from the Economic and Social Research Institute in Dublin. We are carrying out a survey of people's opinions on a variety of social issues on behalf of the International Social Survey Programme (ISSP). You were included in a national sample taken at random from the Electoral Register. This is an international study whose membership includes 39 countries and the aim is to find out exactly what the public in various countries thinks on these issues. It is only with the help of many people like you in answering these questions that makes this work possible. The interview will take about forty-five minutes to complete. I can assure you that all answers will be treated in the strictest confidence and will not be released to anyone in any way that would allow your views to be identified with you.
