Interviewer Instruction	Con questa domanda si intende rilevare, anche approssimativamente, il numero di persone che lavorano/lavoravano nell'impresa/organizzazione/studio di cui l'intervistato è titolare/socio/coadiuvante. Vanno conteggiati qui anche consulenti, lavoratori con contratto a tempo determinato, lavoratori a progetto, lavoratori interinali, etc., ma non gli stagisti. È importante sottolineare che non si fa riferimento all'unità locale presso cui l'intervistato lavora, bensì all'intera impresa/organizzazione/studio. Ad esempio, se l'intervistato ha un'azienda con tre sedi, deve far riferimento ai dipendenti di tutte e tre le sedi, anche se una o più sono all'estero.	The question concerns the (approximative) number of employees working for the firm owned/in which the respondent works. For "employees" we mean also consultants, fixed-term contract workers, workers hired on the basis of a project, etc. However students/people on stage are not to be counted here. The respondent must refer not just to the unit where s/he works, but to the whole organisation/firm/study. Eg. if respondent owns a firm who has three locations, s/he must refer to the employees of all the three locations, even if one or more of them is located abroad.

Please report which kind of ISCO code you apply. The most common ones are the code developed by the International Labour Organisation (ILO) and the variant developed for the European Union (EU), ISCO-COM. Interviewer Instruction	Per "famiglia" si intende il nucleo di convivenza domestica nel quale l'intervistata/o vive. Vi sono alcuni casi particolari che rendono problematica questa domanda: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Singles: se una persona vive sola, il suo reddito personale coincide col reddito familiare; in questo caso, porre la domanda 0 e copiare la risposta nella domanda 0. - Persone che convivono ma non in coppia, ad esempio studenti o persone che lavorano e che condividono l'appartamento: è come se l'intervistata/o vivesse da sola/o, quindi registrare la medesima risposta alle domande 0 e 0. - Persone che vivono in comunità, ad esempio ragazzi oppure anziani: anche in questo caso comportarsi come se l'intervistata/o vivesse da sola/o, registrando la medesima risposta alle domande 0 e 0. - Persone che sono in un nucleo familiare, ma che condividono l'abitazione con altri, ad esempio due famiglie nella stessa casa: se la condivisione riguarda solo la casa, riferirsi al nucleo familiare dell'intervistata/o; se la condivisione riguarda anche altre risorse (cioè se almeno una parte dei soldi viene messa in comune e gestita insieme dalle due famiglie), riferirsi alla convivenza domestica formata da tutti coloro che mettono in comune il proprio reddito/le proprie risorse. 	The term "family" refers to the household where the respondent lives. Please note that: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - for single people, personal and family income are the same; then copy here the information concerning personal income; - for people who live together but are not a couple/family unit (eg. students who share a house), consider family and respondent's personal income as the same, and do as above; - for institutionalised persons, do as detailed above; - for families who share the same dwelling, in case this is the only thing they share please consider only the income of respondent's family; in case the families share more than the dwelling, consider the family income to be the sum of the income of the families concerned. In case the family income is varying across months, ask the respondent to give an average.

	Se il reddito è variabile da mese a mese, chiedere all'intervistata/o di fare una media approssimativa.
