Survey details

This „Flash 209 – Consumer protection and consumer rights Special Target Survey “ was conducted for the European Commission, Directorate-General SANCO, Health and Consumer Protection.

Telephone interviews were conducted in Malta between the 22/03/2007 and the 25/03/2007 by MISCO Maltese partner institute.

Representativeness of the results

The national sample was representative of the population aged between 25 – 45 years.

Sizes of the sample

The sample size was planned 500 respondents in Malta, 502 interviews were conducted in all.

A weighting factor was applied to the national results in order to compute a marginal total for the country in proportion to its population.

Questionnaires

1. The questionnaire prepared for this survey is reproduced at the end of this results volume, in English (see hereafter).
2. The institute translated the questionnaire in their national language(s).

Table of results

VOLUME B: RESPONDENTS’ DEMOGRAPHICS
The VOLUME B presents the Slovenian results with the following socio-demographic characteristics of respondents as breakdowns:

- Sex (Male, Female)
- Age (25-29, 30-34, 35-39, 40 - 45)
- Education (15&-, 16-20, 21&+, Still in full time education)
- Subjective urbanisation (Metropolitan zone, Other town/urban centre, Rural zone)
- Occupation (Self-employed, Employee, Manual worker, Not working)

Statistical significance of the results

The results in a survey are valid only between the limits of a statistical margin caused by the sampling process. This margin varies with three factors:

1. The sample size (or the size of the analysed part in the sample): the greater the number of respondents is, the smaller the statistical margin will be;
2. The result in itself: the closer the result approaches 50%, the wider the statistical margin will be;
3. The desired degree of confidence: the more "strict" we are, the wider the statistical margin will be.

As an example, examine this illustrative case:

1. One question has been answered by 500 people;
2. The analysed result is around 50%;
3. We choose a significance level of 95 % (it is the level most often used by the statisticians, and it is the one chosen for the Table hereafter);
In this illustrative case the statistical margin is: (+/- 4.4%) around the observed 50%. And as a conclusion: the result for the whole population lies between 45.6% and 54.4%.

Hereafter, the statistical margins computed for various observed results are shown, on various sample sizes, at the 95% significance level.

STATISTICAL MARGINS DUE TO THE SAMPLING PROCESS (AT THE 95 % LEVEL OF CONFIDENCE)

Survey details

This „Flash 209 – Consumer protection and consumer rights Special Target Survey“ was conducted for the European Commission, Directorate-General SANCO, Health and Consumer Protection.

Telephone interviews were conducted in Malta between the 29/05/2008 and the 2/06/2008 by MISCO Maltese partner institute.

Representativeness of the results

The national sample was representative of the population aged between 25-45 years.

Sizes of the sample

The sample size was planned 500 respondents in Malta, 503 interviews were conducted in all.

A weighting factor was applied to the national results in order to compute a marginal total for the country in proportion to its population.

Questionnaires

1. The questionnaire prepared for this survey is reproduced at the end of this results volume, in English (see hereafter).
2. The institute translated the questionnaire in their national language(s).

Table of results

VOLUME B: RESPONDENTS’ DEMOGRAPHICS
The VOLUME B presents the Slovenian results with the following socio-demographic characteristics of respondents as breakdowns:

Sex (Male, Female)
Age (25-29, 30-34, 35-39, 40-45)
Education (15&-, 16-20, 21&+, Still in full time education)
Subjective urbanisation (Metropolitan zone, Other town/urban centre, Rural zone)
Occupation (Self-employed, Employee, Manual worker, Not working)

Statistical significance of the results

The results in a survey are valid only between the limits of a statistical margin caused by the sampling process. This margin varies with three factors:

1. The sample size (or the size of the analysed part in the sample): the greater the number of respondents is, the smaller the statistical margin will be;
2. The result in itself: the closer the result approaches 50%, the wider the statistical margin will be;
3. The desired degree of confidence: the more “strict” we are, the wider the statistical margin will be.

As an example, examine this illustrative case:
1. One question has been answered by 500 people;
2. The analysed result is around 50%;
3. We choose a significance level of 95 % (it is the level most often used by the statisticians, and it is the one chosen for the Table hereafter);
In this illustrative case the statistical margin is: (+/- 4.4%) around the observed 50%. And as a conclusion: the result for the whole population lies between 45.6% and 54.4%.

Hereafter, the statistical margins computed for various observed results are shown, on various sample sizes, at the 95% significance level.

STATISTICAL MARGINS DUE TO THE SAMPLING PROCESS (AT THE 95 % LEVEL OF CONFIDENCE)

Various sample sizes are in rows; Various observed results are in columns:
