THE GALLUP ORGANIZATION
Survey details

This “Flash 295 – Consumer protection and consumer rights Special Target Survey, Bulgaria - wave 3” was conducted for the European Commission, Directorate-General SANCO, Health and Consumer Protection.

Telephone interviews were conducted in Bulgaria between 14-18 December 2010 the by our Bulgarian partner institute Vitosha Research.

Representativeness of the results

The national sample was representative of the population aged between 21 and 45 years.

Sample Size

The planned sample size was n=1000 respondents in Bulgaria. In total, n=1002 interviews were conducted.

A weighting factor was applied to the national results in order to compute a marginal total for the country in proportion to its population.

Questionnaire

1.

2. The institute translated the questionnaire in their national language.

Table of results

VOLUME B: RESPONDENTS’ DEMOGRAPHICS
The VOLUME C presents the Bulgarian results with the following socio-demographic characteristics of respondents as breakdowns:

Sex (Male, Female)
Age (21-29, 30-34, 35-39, 40-45)
Age (21-35, 36-45)
Education (-15, 16-20, 21+, Still in full time education)
Subjective urbanisation (Metropolitan zone, other town/urban centre, rural zone)
Occupation (Self-employed, Employee, Manual worker, Not working)
Sampling error

Surveys are designed and conducted to provide an estimate of a true value of characteristics of a population at a given time. An estimate of a survey is unlikely to exactly equal the true population quantity of interest for a variety of reasons. One of these reasons is that data in a survey are collected from only some – a sample of – members of the population, to make data collection cheaper and faster. The “margin of error” is a common summary of sampling error, which quantifies uncertainty about (or confidence in) a survey result.

Usually, one calculates a 95 percent confidence interval of the format: survey estimate +/- margin of error. This interval of values will contain the true population value at least 95% of time.

For example, if it was estimated that 45% of EU citizens are in favour of a single European currency and this estimate is based on a sample of 100 EU citizens, the associated margin of error is about 10 percentage points. The 95 percent confidence interval for support for a European single currency would be (45%-10%) to (45%+10%), suggesting that in the EU the support for a European single currency could range from 35% to 55%. Because of the small sample size of 100 EU citizens, there is considerable uncertainty about whether or not the citizens of the EU support a single currency.

As a general rule, the more interviews conducted (sample size), the smaller the margin of error. Larger samples are more likely to give results closer to the true population quantity and thus have smaller margins of error. For example, a sample of 500 will produce a margin of error of no more than about 4.5 percentage points, and a sample of 1,000 will produce a margin of error of no more than about 3 percentage points.

(The values in the table are the margin of error – at 95% confidence level – for a given survey estimate and sample size)

The examples show that the size of a sample is a crucial factor affecting the margin of error. Nevertheless, once past a certain point – a sample size of 800 or 1,000 – the improvement is small. For example, to reduce the margin of error to 1.5% would require a sample size of 4,000.
